

Hunters and Anglers

Anglers and hunters tend to be conservative, Republican voters. With impending executive actions on the horizon, President Trump has the opportunity to seal his pledge to the NRA and the millions of law-abiding Americans who responsibly own and carry guns for personal protection, hunting, and for sport.

Hunting and fishing sports deliver a sense of freedom, challenge and solitude, and such quality of life, particularly, the sporting life, seems increasingly in jeopardy. Additionally, outdoorsmen view conservation is as important as gun rights and they support a number of conservation issues, including access to public land, clean water protection, and believe children should be spending more time outdoors, than in front of a television or computer screen.

These men and women have answered a telemarketing survey identifying themselves as a hunter and/or angler, and would be excellent prospects for memberships, magazines focusing on hunting and fishing techniques, outdoor gear, outdoor survival tips, and conservation news.
